Local Non-Profit Plans for Music-Filled March Break Camp

Waterloo, Ontario, February 9, 2025 – March Break Music Camp returns for its fourth year. Run in partnership between Bandology and the Laurier Academy of Music and Arts (LAMA), the camp is an innovative week of music making for children in grades 1-6.

March Break Music Camp runs March 16-20, 2026, at LAMA on the Wilfrid Laurier University campus. Campers will enjoy hands-on introductory workshops and participate in a variety of musical activities. Taught by dedicated staff, campers get the opportunity to try out different instruments, enjoy performances by experienced musicians and take a field trip to the Faculty of Music at Laurier.

“Programs like this give young people a rare and powerful gift: a place to explore their creativity, build confidence and make music with pure joy,” said Rebekah Jordan-Miller, the Director of LAMA. “These kinds of experiences spark lifelong curiosity, connection and a love of the arts that last long after the camp week is over!”

“Camp during March Break is such a unique experience for all involved,” said Sandy Wright, Education Manager at Bandology, Laurier alumni and local songwriter and composer. “The ability to collaborate with LAMA and visit the university campus offers a really layered experience for our campers.”

Bandology has run their summer Band Camp in the Halton region since 2017 and began working in Kitchener-Waterloo in 2022. They have hosted previous camps at Rockway Mennonite Collegiate and Bluevale Collegiate High School.
